FOR PRIVATE INVESTORS

ISIN: LU2595015806

INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE

The Sub-Fund's investment objective is primarily to generate income and, secondarily, increase the value of the investor's investment over the recommended holding period (i.e., a medium to long-term investment horizon).

INVESTMENT STRATEGY

The Investment Manager uses its own economic analysis to determine the most attractive asset types and countries, then uses analysis of individual issuers to identify individual securities that offer the best potential gain for the risk involved. The Investment Manager seeks investment prospects paying above average income. The Investment Manager pursues a flexible multi-asset allocation strategy. When investing, the Investment Manager uses a top-down approach. The Investment Manager starts from collecting data on macroeconomic developments for individual countries, or regions that are of interest for it. The Investment Manager monitors central bank announcements about monetary policy, and interest rate levels. Also, the political situation in the country, the dates of parliamentary elections, different indicators of economic activity and fiscal system are considered. Based on this approach, the Investment Manager identifies potential risks and investment opportunities. When investing in bonds, the Investment Manager also follows the change in bond ratings. When investing in equities, the Investment Manager uses an internally developed model which describes the quality of business model. With that model the Investment Manager assigns a rating to each company using information available from company report.

Before making any investment decision, investors should read the Prospectus, and in particular the section on investment risks, as well as the Key Information Document (KID).

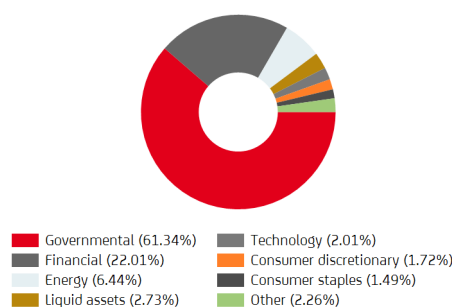

Holdings and allocations are subject to change. This document does not constitute investment advice or a recommendation to invest in the securities presented.

PERFORMANCE AND RISK MEASURES

Performance¹ as at 30. December 2024

Source: Structured Invest S.A. Past performance including all fees of share class M at sub-fund level is calculated according to the BVI method (www.bvi.de), excluding any entry and exit fees, and the reinvested dividend for the accumulation class. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Future performance is subject to taxation, which depends on the personal situation of each investor and may change in the future.

RISK PROFILE

The historical data used to calculate the summary risk indicator may not be a reliable indicator of the future risk profile of the sub-fund. There is no guarantee that the risk category illustrated above will remain unchanged. A classification of the sub-fund in the lower category does not automatically mean that the investment is risk-free.

Risk classification of the sub-fund

The sub-fund's strategy is to invest in different assets and derivative instruments. Due to the relatively high volatility of these investments, the fund is classified in risk category 3.

Other relevant risks

The credit rating of the issuers of the securities held by the sub-fund and its strategy may deteriorate over time. In the unlikely event that the issuer of a security is forced to declare itself insolvent, the value of the securities could fall significantly. This could lead to a reduction in the market price of the sub-fund that exceeds the general market fluctuations.

The sub-fund's performance and the ability to buy, sell or redeem fund units may be hampered by economic developments and uncertainty caused by political events, changes in government policy, restrictions on capital flows and changes to the regulatory framework. Events such as natural disasters and political unrest can also have negative repercussions.

Under unfavourable market conditions, it may be difficult for the sub-fund to sell the securities held without incurring significant losses, or it may even be impossible to sell certain securities.

In this extreme case, it is possible that the sub-fund will experience payment difficulties, which could prevent investors from redeeming all their units immediately and without incurring significant losses. The sub-fund may perform derivative transactions and is therefore exposed to the risk of a counterparty failing to honour its contractual obligations. We reduce counterparty risk on derivative transactions by requiring our contractual counterparty to provide minimum collateral, as stipulated by the relevant regulatory requirements.

The sub-fund may incur losses due to malfunctions or inadequate internal procedures and systems, operational risks or external events. This includes the possibility of incurring losses due to a breach of applicable regulatory requirements, including losses caused by changes to the regulatory framework on existing transactions.

Derivatives are subject to specific risks arising from the "leverage effect", which amplifies the change in the market price of a derivative compared with the actual change in the market price of its underlying. The risk of loss increases as the amount of leverage of the derivative increases.

Risks not sufficiently taken into account in the indicator include the following: equity risk, bond risk, commodity risk, risk arising from multi-asset investments, sustainability risk, risks related to investment funds, risk of debt securities, convertible bonds, contingent convertible (CoCo) bonds, hybrid bonds and bonds with a rating below investment grade or no rating, early repayment and extension risk, derivatives and counterparty risk, short position risk, high leverage risk, currency risk, geopolitical risk and emerging markets risk.

For more in-depth information on the sub-fund's risk profile, please refer to the risk section of the fund's prospectus.
